

Hi All,

It is good news is that many of the rules designed to combat the onset of Avian flu have been lifted. See the link below.

We also have the Jubilee Cafe this coming Thursday.

More good news is that the Winsham community has a new Facebook Page, set up by Tom Harris. This is significant, as more and more people of all ages use Facebook as the means of communicating with their friends, so it is self evident that it is a useful tool for getting news about the parish around the parish. Just click on the picture below, or on the Facebook logo you see on the various Winsham web sites,etc.

It is part of 'Winsham on the Web', the on-line network which incorporates Twitter, three web sites and ,of course, this e-letter. This, when associated with the Joint Parish Magazine and the various notice boards in Winsham Shop, the Jubilee Hall, etc. (not to mention the assorted telephone and power poles) for the display of A4 posters, offers everyone with the opportunity to get their particular message across. Unfortunately no one method reaches everyone.

If anyone has any evidence that the new cell-net mast is operating perhaps they could make it known of the new Facebook page.

With regard to high speed broadband, my not so fast service (about 35mbs download) is being investigated by BT (or is it OpenReach) next week. The problem is that I risk a bill of £120 if it turns out to be my fault! Such is life. I will report on the result next week.

I wish all our readers a 'Happy Easter'. Easter, with the gradual arrival of Spring , at least in our part of the world, gives a message of hope and encouragement on our journey through this 'vale of tears', and we certainly need this in our unsettled world.

Kindest regards to you all.

John

The Winsham Community Facebook page has been given a new look, thanks to Tom Harris. It also has a new address, so the links from the web sites, etc have been updated (or will be shortly). Just click on the picture above, and see for yourself.
