

WINSHAM E-LETTER

The end of an era?

Hi All,

Last week I promised you some excitement, and here it is. Three important new additions to the Web Museum (I know-I need to get a life!). We have Liz Earl's 2017 Nature Diary- which really is fun, with some lovely pics, and some quite saucy moments when it comes to observations on the sex lives of some of our feathered friends! Well worth a read, and many thanks to Liz for all her effort.

The other two items relate to the thespian activities of the Winsham Players and Ann Cook. An account and photographs-all taken by Annie Dent- of the recent production of 'It was just another day', which was performed at the Jubilee Hall a couple of weeks ago, and a much delayed record (for which I must apologise-but better late than never) of 'The Heir of Heartfelt Manor' which was performed after the lighting-up of the Christmas Tree in December 2016.

For me, like most of us I expect, it has been a busy week. In addition to the normal day to day problems, like getting-up in the morning, there has been a lot of work on the computer made a lot worse by open warfare between me and a legion of software gremlins that decided to make their presence felt. Harpic doesn't help in these situations-just determination that they are not going to win!

Lottery Ticket sales are going well-thank you to all those who have bought their tickets early. Also the reaction from advertisers and readers of the new Winsham Market Place 2018 have been very positive; we have several new advertisers since last week.

Cheers,
John
