

WINSHAM E-LETTER

Hi All,

Last week's e-letter was a busy affair-so is this one!

First of all 'The George Project'-the transfer of the Winsham Shop and Post Office to just across the road is on the go again-see the update from the shop's management committee on the link below.

The latest edition of the School News letter makes interesting reading. The children are making real use of information technology. They are using Skype to talk to Museums in Greece, and shortly expect to be talking to a school in Australia. They have also acquired a giant smart screen. More important than all this, they are having Christmas Bingo on the 1st of December. Which means that I will soon have to start thinking about the E-Letter's Christmas Events display, where all the Christmas events will be displayed on one page of the Parish Web site.

I am in trouble with a reader. Winsham Art Club did not appear last week in the tabulated section below, and as a result they thought that the sixty eight year old club had unexpectedly ceased to exist. I am pleased to say that this is not the case, and it is very much alive and kicking. It has its annual show coming up soon.

The important purpose of the e-letter is to draw the attention of readers to NEW events and happenings in the parish. It does this, in the main, by linking to pages on the Parish Web Site, Winsham Parish Council Web site, the Winsham Community Facebook page, and sometimes to the Winsham Web Museum. It also on occasion refers readers to the Joint Parish Magazine.

If one week your favourite organisation disappears it simply means that there is, at the moment, nothing happening that is likely to be of interest to the majority of readers. It is expected that the village organisations themselves keep in touch with their members on day-to-day matters.

If you can't find something it is always worth checking the web sites.

I really must get a life! Perhaps I should take up stamp collecting.

'Bye,

John
